The racket has been flourishing since 2011, police said. Savaliya had allegedly made Kerala school board's fake Class 12 marksheet for a city resident Akshar Kalathiya who wanted to pursue higher studies in Italy on a student's visa. The marksheet was sent to the Kerala board for verification and it was found to be fake. Akshar was arrested by the Thiruvananthapuram's Cantonment police after an FIR was lodged there on Jan 11. Akshar got bail later and his father Bharat lodged a complaint against Savaliya with the Singanpore police station on March 2. Investigation revealed that Savaliya's partners in crime were Manoj Kumar from Faridabad, and two Noida residents Rahul Saini and Karan who have also been booked. They were booked under IPC sections of forgery and cheating. All you need is some good graphics design skills and knowledge of mark sheets, or just a copy of someone else's mark sheet to forge your own. Quite literally, it is that simple. But that could have worked a decade or two ago, but not in today's modern world. That's because there are a few options that are accessible for everyone to check whether a marksheet is fake or real. And if you were already wondering about that, then we have some good news for you. Here we are going to take a look at some ways or methods that can help you to check if your or someone else's marksheet is original or not. Let's get down to it then. What Options Do You Have To Check If A Marksheet Is Original Or Fake? Image Credit: leverageedu Well, to check whether or not your or someone else's marksheet is real, you've got a few reliable sources. Let's go over all of them one by one, and yep, we have saved a good one for the end of this post, so yeah, you may wanna stay tuned until the end. CBSE Board Checks: Did you study under the CBSE board? Great! They've made checking your marksheet super easy now. You can simply hop onto CBSE's official website and pop in your marksheet. They'll check it quickly and let you know. And yeah, before you start, keep your roll number and passing year ready. Oh, and there's a small fee for this. State Board Checks: See, each state in India does its own thing when it comes to checking mark sheets. Some states, like UP, Maharashtra, Jammu & Kashmir, and Madhya Pradesh have special online sites or offices where you can check. It is usually best to peek at their official website or pop into their office. And for other states, just send them a formal letter with a copy of your mark sheet and a small fee. This can be online or the old-school way, in person. NIOS Certificate Checks: And did you study with the National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS)? Cool! Well, they have a special online platform where you can simply pop in your papers for a quick check. Easy-peasy! This method is only for those who are homeschooled. However, in theory, you can get your usual marksheet checked despite the fact that you are not homeschooled. So yeah, don't forget to give this one a try. COBSE Checks: Have you ever heard of the Council of Boards of School Education (COBSE)? Well yeah, they can help you out with your marksheet authentication task too. If you're scratching your head, wondering if a school or board is legit, give COBSE a shot and you'll know. They'll help you figure it out. And What Exactly Is Right To Information Act or RTI? RTI is like a special pass that lets you, me, or anyone else ask public places (like schools or colleges) about stuff we want to know. So, if you're scratching your head wondering if your mark sheet is legit, RTI can help you out with that. Let's say you're not sure if your marksheet is real. No worries! Just send an RTI question to the school or college. They have to answer you because, well, that's the rule! Maybe you are a boss checking if someone really got those grades they claim. Or it could be that you're just making sure your own marks are correct. Either way, RTI can be your best bet. A heads up though, some private places might not answer directly. If that happens, try asking their bigger parent school or group. See, if you're hiring, you can use RTI to double-check if someone's educational details are true. Just be sure you know the right way to ask, especially if it's about someone else's details. A little homework on the RTI rules will go a long way! Conclusion There you have it. With the information or steps mentioned in today's post, it shouldn't be that hard for you to verify whether a marksheet is original or not. Since there are multiple ways to do that, you can try out whichever is more convenient for you. You are not only putting your career in jeopardy but also supporting the widespread fake mark sheet rackets happening in India. If you are a graduate, hardly any company will be concerned about your 10th and 12th mark sheets. Solutions to Obtain Your Mark Sheets Still, if you want, there are two simple solutions: 1. Approach the schools and colleges from where you completed your SSC and HSC; they definitely have your record of roll number, and none of the schools destroy it. Then apply to the respective board. The whole process won't take more than 15 days. 2. If your school does not provide the information, then file an RTI application to the board asking for the roll number by providing your name, school, college name, and year of passing. It may take around 2 months. After getting a reply, simply apply with a police complaint copy and an affidavit to the board. As an HR professional, I have given certain employees time to submit such mark sheets, and I am sure HR will help you out too. 21st January 2014 From India, Mumbai logimuraclelogistics 1159 It's quite simple and easy. I don't understand why you panic and go to the extent of making things worse for yourself, risking your own future life. You may as well end up behind bars. Never try to fake things. Don't take it for granted that fakes are available by throwing money at some thugs. Steps to Obtain Duplicate Certificates What you have to do is approach your HM or the Principal of the institution, submit the necessary application supporting an FIR copy/extract, and an Affidavit attested by the Notary. You will then be issued duplicate certificates. It's not that difficult to obtain. Even individuals with less education who come from villages manage the situation correctly. I'm surprised at how you could panic like this. Of course, SSLC/PUC Leaving certificates and marks cards are a few of the primary documents always insisted upon by employers, or for that matter, every office, to authenticate your credentials. So, approach the respective offices and obtain them. 22nd January 2014 From India, Bangalore akkyipe2013 5 Avoid Submitting Fake Documents First and foremost, don't even think of submitting fake documents for any purpose anywhere. Steps to Reapply for Credential Certificates Secondly, you can reapply for your credential certificates even if you are unable to recall your roll number or any relevant detail. Just file an FIR, take a copy of the acknowledgment, then write an application for re-issue directed to the head of your institute where you pursued your schooling. You can easily retrieve all your data like roll number, certificate number, registration number, etc. After that, reapply to the board along with all the data and an application stating the reason for re-issue. There will be a charge for this process; for CBSE, they charge around 500 INR. What's important is that you will receive a copy of all the documents. The whole process should take less than a month. Report abuse? Educational certificates acquired by individuals are proof of their academic achievement. It is a benchmark of knowledge, skills, and eligibility in education and employment. Currently, fake degrees and certificates are the main concern of various institutions and employers. Verifying degrees and certificates during hiring and admission is essential. It will help in avoiding hiring underqualified individuals and associated legal penalties. Proper verification ensures that only deserving candidates get the benefits. Why Marksheet Verification Is Essential? Fake marksheets are a major concern for employers and educational institutions in India. Here is why Many job seekers submit fake 10th and 12th mark sheets to enhance their profiles during the job application process. This leads to the hiring of an individual who does not have the necessary skills and knowledge for the job role. Employers hire fraudulent candidates unknowingly, which results in poor performance. The misuse of the fake mark sheet makes it harder for qualified employees to get a job. High-salaried jobs require higher education, due to which many candidates use forged mark sheets. It helps in boosting their profile in the competitive job market. These forged documents look similar to the original degrees and certificates issued by the institution. Educational institutions and recruitment agencies find it difficult to verify this kind of documents. The use of forged mark sheets not only impacts the individual but can also cause legal issues for educational institutions and recruitment agencies. How to Verify a Marksheet or Certificate? Here is a list of methods that educational institutions and recruiters can use to verify mark sheets. Offline Method The traditional way of mark sheet verification involves contacting the educational institution directly. This process requires these steps Contact Education Institution Collect information on individuals, such as roll number, name, DOB, and year of passing. Contact the school, college, or university through phone or email for verification. Each institution may have its own verification process. This could involve filling out a specific verification form, paying a processing fee, or providing additional documents as required. Make sure all instructions are followed carefully to avoid delays.
